

HAPPENINGS ABOUT PRESS + PUBLISHED WRITING

small talk // nicole reber // visual artist + writer + co-editor of packet biweekly

MAY 04, 2016 IN SMALL TALK

in the short time that i've known artist/writer nicole reber, nicole continues to kill it. we met some months ago over social media when another artist was like, "you two should be friends!" after a few months of stalking nicole and digging her artwork, i asked to interview her for cultureisland. we met up on a sunday: she talked artmaking while we both shared personal learnings, anecdotes and french fries. not only is nicole making really rad art (you can catch her work at two shows -- one in nyc at transmitter gallery while another opens in portland friday) but she is also the co-editor of packet biweekly, an art publication that comes out twice a month. packet is a new cultural partner of nada, an emerging art fair happening this weekend. nicole will be moderating a talk there on friday at 4 pm about the role of performance art in gallery programming so be sure to check it out!

madman across the water // 18" x 24" // vinyl, plastic, and aluminum // 2016 (in a show that

* check out more of nicole's work here + her instagram // and packet biweekly here and here *
